

GEMINI VOICES - JULY 2008

The email newsletter for members, associates and supporters of

wombtwin.com

The conference video

The conference was a success, in so far as everyone said they enjoyed the opportunity to be together. There was a great sense of fellowship as everyone told his or her story. There is a collection of comments on the web site, such as:

- There is a sense of excitement, that after this we will move forward.
- There is more hope.
- I loved hearing everyone's stories!
- It meant a lot to me announce that I am a wombtwin survivor for the very first time in public.
- I feel less alone - I always thought it was just me who felt this way.

The conference on the website

The day was recorded on video, so, when I have some spare time, I can transcribe the speeches and publish them on the site. In the meantime, I have edited out some snippets and they are available on the website here.

The same snippets are also available on UTube and another here and also here and here. I have started a group on the Utube site, so anyone with a video on this subject can upload it there.

Our next conference, "Wombtwin Survivors: celebrating our special gifts" will take place on Friday 19th June - Sunday 21st June 2009. A series of group workshops, networking opportunities, story-telling and a special guest!!

The wombtwin.com AGM

I know I sent out a notice some time ago, saying the AGM would be on July 19th, but that has proven to be an impossible task, what with the conference and the book to get ready. Therefore we have moved it to October 25th. I am in discussion with the other directors over exactly what we do, but it is probable that we will be meeting in St Albans, which is my home town in Hertfordshire.

More details next time. In the meantime if you would like to become a member or an associate, there are more details on the web site.

A Silent Cry

Yes it's out, and the contributors' complimentary copies are making their way across the world. If you were a contributor and your copy does not arrive in a week or two, do let me know.

Read all about it!

The comments continue to arrive: here's one from the USA:

So very, very many of the reckonings resonate as the same or extensions of my own experience. This will only be countenanced by wombtwin survivors. The others, the majority, will see them as independent stories unified by confused unhappiness. That's why your book is so important. It is brand new information for most people and many will open their eyes and hearts.

A message from Nick Owen

Have you ever visited Flickr? It's a site for people who love to take photographs. Try the wombtwins page. There are some wonderful conscious and unconscious explorations of the womb twin theme here. Some really talented art-work.

Please send us any wombtwin quotes, stories or comments for this newsletter so we can include your ideas in the next issue, due in August 2008.

Editor: Althea Hayton, PO Box 396, St Albans, Hertfordshire, AL3 6NE, England.

To unsubscribe please email info@wombtwin.com and let us know.

Wombtwin.com is a Company Limited by Guarantee incorporated in 2007 under the 1985 Companies Act. Registered in England and Wales (Company No. 6317497). Registered address: Duport Associates, The Bristol Offices, 2 Southfield Road, Westbury on Trym, Bristol BS9 3BH